FRONT LINE AIR STRENGTH GROWS

Official Chungking Report Claims Heavy Japanese Losses

CHUNGKING, Feb. 19.
IT WAS OFFICIALLY stated to-day that the first weeks of 1939 saw the continual re-strengthening and expanding of the Chinese air force.

It was said that when the war began China had 300 first-line fighting aeroplanes and three completed airplane assembling plants with a fighting staff of 1,200 men.

DUTCH BUY U.S. PLANES

Naval Mission Seeks War Materials

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.
IT IS revealed that a Dutch naval mission arrived here on Tuesday to negotiate with the United States Navy Department for the purchase of war material.

Holland is seeking to buy American seaplanes, motor torpedo-boats, anti-aircraft guns and machine-guns, according to a statement issued by the Netherlands Legation.

The Dutch naval attaché declares that Holland will buy our hundred planes if the prices quoted are satisfactory. Some time ago Holland bought a number of American aeroplanes for the Netherlands East Indies.

Two officers of the colonial army are at present in America with the object of buying 150 machines from the Glenn Martin and Lockheed works. This deal is in addition to the new Dutch mission, which came direct from Holland.

U.S. PLANE FACTORY FOR FRANCE

New York, Feb. 18.
The Pratt Whitney Corporation has reported that it is preparing big orders for machine tools for a plane and engine factory in France which the Corporation will equip and operate.

SOUND POLICY

Washington, Feb. 18.
General Mallin Craig, Chief of Staff of the United States Army, endorsed before the Senate Military Affairs Committee President Roosevelt's policy of selling warplanes abroad. According to his testimony released by the committee to-day he said: "It is the soundest kind of proposition for the United States to seek to place its aeroplanes in foreign hands. It has been brought up about maintaining workmen on a permanent basis in our factories."—Reuter.

CHUNGKING INTEREST

Chungking, Feb. 19.
Political leaders and public circles are paying serious attention to the passage of the United States Defence Bill and the British preparations for the expansion of armaments.

Local daily newspapers play up both of these subjects. All politicians in Chungking react favourably to the Democratic Powers' rearmament plans. The Kuomintang Central Daily News, in an editorial to-day, says: "It is America's reply to Japanese invasion of Hainan Island. Washington's action is becoming more positive as Japan's arrogance rises higher. We are confident that Anglo-American co-operation in the Pacific will strangle the Pirate of the Orient."

The Communist organ, the New China Daily refers to "This extraordinary defence programme of the United States."—United Press.

COLUMBIA, Feb. 19.
SENIOR STUDENTS of the University of Columbia to-day chose Hedy Lamarr, the famous "Ecstasy" girl who is now a Hollywood film star, as the woman with whom they would rather be stranded on a desert island than any other. Last year they chose the English stage and screen star, Madeline Carroll. Hedy Lamarr is a Czechoslovakian. —United Press.

JAPANESE WARSHIPS MASSING

Large Concentration South Of Shanghai

CHUNGKING, Feb. 18.
NEWS OF A concentration of Japanese warships and transports off Hainan Bay, 100 miles south of Shanghai was received here to-day.

Ten vessels are reported to have been seen below Ningpo, and four warships are said already to have penetrated the Chinese boom, and are heading for Hainan, apparently intending to effect a landing.

According to the Japanese, arms are reaching Chiang Kai-shek's forces through the hinterland at Ningpo. —Reuter.

CHINA CONFIDENT

London, Feb. 18.
Professor P. C. Chang, speaking at the International Peace Campaign conference to-day, said that China was even more confident of the result of the war now than at the beginning of the conflict.

He appealed to the peace-loving countries to attack the coalition of war-mongers' weakest link by helping China.

He emphasised the close relationship between events in the Far East and in Europe, and said that it was the "surrender" in September last in Europe which had emboldened the Japanese to attack Canton, within a few miles of Hongkong. The occupation of Hainan was a fresh blow against France, Britain, and the United States, as it was a strategic centre for an attack against Hongkong, Indo-China or the Philippines. The Japanese were now equipping Hainan as an aeroplane and submarine base. —Reuter.

HONGKONG "QUARANTINED"

Manila, Feb. 18.
At a dinner of the Political and Science Club here to-night, the guest of honour was the Chinese Consul, Mr. Kuang-shan Young, who in a speech tracing the connection between the Sino-Japanese conflict and the European war clouds remarked: "After the signing of the Munich agreement, Japanese forces immediately invaded Canton. Thus, instead of being quarantined, Japan has quarantined Hongkong. Japanese occupation of Hainan is a rope to hang Indo-China, and it is a knife (Continued on Page 4.)

"Passive" Exercises For Her Frontier

METZ, Feb. 18.
THE DEFENDERS of the Maginot Line will be mobilised next Wednesday for the most important passive defence exercises France has yet held on the frontier.

The inhabitants of Metz, Thionville, and all the frontier towns will participate in the exercises, including A.R.P. demonstrations.

Towns will be blacked out, and dummy explosives and incendiary and gas bombs will be dropped by "enemy" aircraft.

Nurses, scouts, and ambulance men and France's entire material for frontier defence will be called into action. —Reuter.

NAZIS DEMAND TO LITHUANIA

Kaunas, Feb. 18.
A memorandum containing six demands has been presented to the Lithuanian Government by the representatives of 350,000 Germans. It includes demands for granting free exercise of national German culture, the provision of a larger number of German schools, and the removal of "pressure" by Lithuanian police.

The German minority in Lithuania is thus following the tactics of the Germans in the Memel territory, where the Nazis have a majority in the Diet.

The Lithuanian authorities regard the statements made in the memorandum as exaggerated. —Reuter.

STATE DEPARTMENT IN DARK

Washington, Feb. 19.
Administration Leaders and Congress generally to-day professed to be in the dark regarding any information President Roosevelt may have received concerning the European situation.

There is relatively little activity in the State Department, but it was pointed out that President Roosevelt might have been in touch by telephone with Mr. Joseph Kennedy and Mr. William Bullitt from whom he might have received special information. —Reuter.

Certain Cure For T.B.: Japan Claims

TOKYO, Feb. 18.
GREAT INTEREST is being shown in medical and other circles in what is claimed to be a sure and certain cure for tuberculosis, advanced by Doctor Yoshisada Nakajima, Professor of the Imperial University of Kyushu, at Fukuoka, on the basis of clinical tests made during the last six years.

Doctor Nakajima states that he has treated over 200 cases of pulmonary and intestinal tuberculosis in the last six years, and that complete cures have been established in every case after treatment extending from six to twelve months. The treatment is understood to be based on a gradual and progressive administration of rays, the patients being first treated through sun rays to accustom them to the necessary stimulation. —Domel.

CZECH WAR LEADER RESIGNS

Government Shake- Up Said Possible

PRAGUE, Feb. 19.
General Ludvig Krejci, Chief of the General Staff of the Czechoslovak Army, has been relieved of his duties at his own request by Dr. Hacha, and has gone on leave.

The President expressed to General Krejci his gratitude for services rendered to the Czechoslovak Army.

Prague political circles credit General Krejci with the main responsibility for the two Czechoslovak mobilizations in May and September last year.

The resignation is the chief topic of discussion in political quarters here. It is asserted that the resignation was partially due to divergences of opinion which had arisen within the General Staff between the Francophile group and another group which is maintaining close relations with the National Union Party.

It is hinted that the resignation of General Krejci may be followed by other important changes in the Command of the Czech Army, which may in turn lead to changes in the composition of the cabinet itself. —Trans-Ocean.

Amazing Robot For Air Defence

London, Feb. 18.
An extraordinarily ingenious anti-aircraft device called a "Predictor" will be on view to visitors to the British Industries Fair at Olympia next week.

The Predictor can calculate the position of approaching aircraft and pass the information electrically to anti-aircraft batteries.

It is pointed out that the speeds of modern aircraft are so great that anti-aircraft gunfire must be directed, in some circumstances, as much as two miles ahead when the shell is fired.

The War Office has given permission for the Predictor to be shown. The Predictor feeds the gunners with all the necessary information for constant fire on a target, and transmits height, direction and speed of the raiding machines with amazing speed and accuracy. —Reuter.

Minor Reverse In Commons

London, Feb. 18.
The Government suffered a minor defeat in the House of Commons yesterday when the House, by a vote of 145 to 105, approved the second reading of the Mining Subsidy Bill, which the Government opposed.

Immediately the vote was known the opposition raised the usual cry of "Resign! Resign!" but the resignation of the Government definitely is not involved.

The defeat was due principally to the fact that the majority of the Conservative members had already started for the traditional week-end holiday, whereas the Labour members were fully represented, and they also received support by some of the Government. —United Press.

The War In Spain

LOYALISTS WILL MAKE PEACE OFFER

PARIS, Feb. 18.
A FORMAL PEACE OFFER will shortly be made by the Spanish Loyalist Government, according to well-informed Loyalist circles here. The offer will be conveyed to General Franco through the British Government.

It is stated that the offer will be based on the sole condition that there will be no reprisals against persons who have fought on the Loyalist side, or who have Loyalist sympathies. It is added that should an agreement be reached, President Manuel Azana would go to Spain if his presence was necessary to effect a Government. —Reuter.

TALKS IN LONDON

London, Feb. 18.
The Spanish Ambassador called at the Foreign Office to-day, and it is understood, exchanged information regarding the current aspects of the Spanish situation.

The Ambassador insisted on the complete unanimity of the Loyalist Government. —Reuter.

MINISTRIES SCATTER

Paris, Feb. 19.
Although the Loyalist Government has chosen Madrid as the official headquarters, several ministries, according to reports available here, have been moved for safety reasons to the Levant province. The Ministers of Justice, Education and Labour are reported to have left Madrid on Saturday morning in order to prepare the transfer of their ministries to Cartagena.

The immediate reason for the removal is, according to the Paris "Soir", the fact that, out of nine Madrid ministries, four have been heavily damaged by air raids and only three are properly habitable.

M. Leon Berard is expected to arrive at Burgos on Saturday night. Insurgent political circles say for the time being no possibility for discussions between M. Berard and the Insurgent Foreign Minister, Count Jordana, who at present is not in Burgos and is expected to stay several days in Barcelona.

The biggest military parade yet held in Insurgent Spain will take place in Barcelona on Monday, in the presence of the entire Insurgent Cabinet, the Diplomatic Corps, leaders of the Insurgent party and the civil authorities. —Trans-Ocean.

FRENCH SENATOR'S MISSION

Burgos, Feb. 18.
Senator Berard arrived here to-day, but it is stated that definite developments are likely to be deferred until early next week.

The British Agent, Sir Robert Hodgson had several conferences with officials of the Foreign Ministry to-day, but left to-night for St. Jean de Luz to confer with the British authorities there.

The Insurgent press caustically comments on the movements of Loyalist officials in France, declaring that Paris has virtually become the "capital of Red Spain."

The situation appears to revolve around the British and French desire to obtain a clear statement from the Insurgents of the conditions which would obtain if surrender was effected, but the Insurgents maintain that their policy is perfectly clear.

Those against whom evidence of "blood guilt" exists will be court-martialed, tried, and sentenced as at present in Catalonia.

General Franco has expressed the wish not only to conquer but to convince, and he would prefer his sword and relief lorries to enter Madrid rather than tanks.

Large quantities of food are already stored outside the capital ready for distribution, and 10,000 men belonging to a Public Order Corps are ready to enter the city at a moment's notice.

At the same time, every precaution for an offensive has been made, though in view of the distance from Catalonia, it is uncertain how soon General Franco's armies will be ready to attack Madrid. —Reuter.

800,000 IMPRISONED

SHOOTING SENSATION

EXTENSIVE PLOT IS ALLEGED

Anti-Fascist Round- Up Rumour

ROME, Feb. 18.
DESPITE THE reassuring nature of the official communiqué on the shooting incident at Vianonmentana, the Italian public is still somewhat excited about the affair.

An unconfirmed rumour alleged that the arrested man revealed names of would-be accomplices in a carefully planned attempt on Il Duce's life, and consequently many alleged anti-Fascists have been arrested in various parts of the country.

No official confirmation or denial of such stories are forthcoming. Nevertheless, rumours of a conspiracy by an alleged madman arrested in connection with the Vianonmentana incident, in which the madman shot a detective in the grounds of Mussolini's residence, and was himself shot, are officially described as fantastic, and rumours of mass arrests are likewise termed tendentious.

There is no evidence that any extra police precautions are being taken to protect Signor Mussolini. —Reuter.

JAPANESE AIR FLEET DESTROYED

Entire Squadron Of Bombers Shot Down

CHANGSHA, Feb. 20.
In one of the most thrilling air spectacles in several months, a Japanese fleet of Japanese bombers has been totally destroyed over Changsha, according to an official Chinese communiqué issued this morning.

The fleet, consisting of eight bombers, was trapped by a superior force of Chinese pursuit planes as it was launching a raid on Changsha. Although the bombers were escorted by four Japanese pursuit planes the latter were forced to flee, leaving the slower and heavier machines to their fate.

Not one of the eight bombers escaped, most of them being shot down in flames.

Forewarning of the approach of the Japanese was received in sufficient time to allow an overwhelmingly superior force of speedy Chinese pursuit planes to take to the air.

Crackers Burn Motor-Car

Crackers were responsible for the total destruction of a Lincoln Zephyr car, stated to be owned by Tang Un-chung of 138, Caine Road, at the intersection of Hollywood Road and Peel Street at 10.20 a.m. to-day.

Earlier, the car was involved in an incident with another car, as a result of which it skidded into Peel Street, coming to rest against the kerb near the Chan Kwong Studio.

Apparently, as a result of the accident, petrol leaked from the tank and this was fired by a cracker. Within a few seconds the entire car was a mass of flames. Fire brigade was summoned by Mr. Chan Ying-sue, of the Chan Kwong Studio. When the engines arrived the wall of the Studio had caught alight.

The flames were quickly subdued, but, not before the car was totally destroyed.

Leopard Shot In Zoo Grounds

Paignton.

After 43 hours of liberty, Ben, the large leopard which escaped from its cage at Primley Zoo here after seriously mauling a keeper recently, was killed in the Zoo grounds.

It was shot at a range of 9ft by Major S. A. York, of the 132nd (Devon) L.A.A. Bty., R.A. T.A. Major York, who is 49 and lives at Starcross, used a Service rifle.

Mr. H. Whitley, owner of the Zoo, is to present him with the skin of the animal.

During the night the leopard killed six ewes in a field only 300 yards from the botanical gardens adjoining the Zoo, where it hid all the next day. At 8.30 a.m. it was seen by Mr. F. Goldring, a gardener, in the sub-bury of the Botanical Gardens.

Mush And Milk For Longevity

Norwalk, O.

Mrs. Electa J. Amsden, who has celebrated her 101st birthday, still loves to travel and is in perfect health. The reason? "I was raised on mush and milk," she said.

TERRITORIALS IN TREES

Major York, three Territorials, including Q. M. S. Barnes, Police Insp. W. J. Huddings, and a number of police officers, then began to beat through the gardens. Territorials with rifles were perched in trees ready to shoot if the leopard broke cover.

Major York said later: "I saw something move in the bushes. With Mr. J. W. Lester, reptile keeper at the Zoo, I crawled under a bush and saw the leopard staring at us."

"My first shot, under the heart, must have killed it instantly. I fired a second shot into its mouth."

TITLED PARTNERS FOR MAIDS AT ANTI-SNOB "HOP"

MAIDS and shop-girls danced the Lambeth Walk and the Paul Jones with men of title and business magnates at Wimbledon's shilling (1s. 6d. for two) anti-snobbery ball in the Town Hall recently.

Only one man dared to go in evening dress, and he was the M.C., Mr. Sam Preece. There were no modern crinolines or backless gowns—just lounge suits and neat frocks. The main care of the doorkeeper was to keep out gate-crashers in evening dress.

Planned by Wimbledon's Mayor, Major H. A. Crowe, whose idea is to break down the barriers of class and snobbery, the ball was attended by 1,600 and proved a great financial help for the Mayor's benevolent fund for necessitous cases in the district.

MUCH PARTNERS LITTLE

Aldermen and councillors paid their shilling and danced with typists and clerks; girls with private incomes partnered bicycle messengers and labourers; cooks and factory girls paired with £15-a-week City men.

The Mayor picked his partners at random, and then collected a party for supper in his parlour. Sir Frank Pollitzer and Sir Henry Twyford joined him with the Town Clerk and the Medical Officer of Health, and passed coffee and cakes to the Mayor, a girl from a Merton factory, a clerk from Hounslow, a carpenter from Battersea and a Mayfair mannequin.

Sir George Roberts, Sir Patrick Kelly and other titled people were among those who brought parties.

FOR THE NOT-SO-RICH

The Mayor, who left his civic decorations under lock and key, said afterwards: "I was determined to organize a civic function at which everyone, no matter what their professional status, could attend."

"Ratepayers and residents are sometimes prevented from taking part in our functions because they are sometimes rather expensive and evening dress may be necessary."

"I want everyone, no matter how rich or not so rich, to have the chance of meeting together on a festive event such as this. I am very happy that the response has been so magnificent."

An official described the dance as the "happiest idea and the happiest event Wimbledon has known for years."

Hatry Freed From Gaol

CLARENCE HATRY, the financier, has been released from Maidstone gaol, where he was sent after his Old Bailey sentence of 14 years penal servitude in January, 1930.

He was liberated recently, and has since been staying in a flat in Mayfair, where his wife has lived for some years.

NOT NOW AT FLAT

Diana, his 22-year-old daughter, left the flat recently in a taxi loaded with luggage, including a bag of golf clubs.

A member of the staff at the flat said: "We can state that Mr. and Mrs. Hatry are not now at the flat. Miss Hatry took her luggage with her and is not expected back for about a week, though no definite arrangements have been made."

"No members of Mr. Hatry's staff at the flat have been told what are his future plans."

Deliveries of milk, newspapers and bread at the flat have been stopped "for an indefinite period."

MAXIMUM SENTENCE

Mr. Hatry's sentence of 14 years' penal servitude—the maximum—was for conspiring to forge and utter corporation stock certificates.

In gaol Mr. Hatry was a model prisoner, and earned full remission marks.

The normal remission for good conduct is three months in each year of the sentence, so in the ordinary course Mr. Hatry was due for release in the middle of next year.

HELPED BY SON

Mr. Hatry is now 49. During his imprisonment his son, Mr. Cecil A. Hatry, has looked after his father's interests, and last year he prepared a booklet to show that the effects of the crash were more limited than was generally supposed, and that his father did much good work.

Mr. Atherton Powys, solicitor and administrator of his estate and effects, also said: "Not a little of the evil effects attributed to Hatry's crime had, in fact, the remotest connection with his failure."

Mr. Hatry's career was one of the most spectacular the City has ever seen.

In 1912 he was clerk to an insurance broker. Not seven years later he was a racehorse and yacht owner and a millionaire by reputation.

With his horse Furious he won the Lincolnshire Handicap in 1920.

£100,000 Sailor Doesn't Care

WORTH £100,000, seaman-philosopher Harry Brant, the man to whom money means nothing, arrived at Liverpool recently in the freighter Coptic, more determined than ever to hold down his £20 10s-a-month job on the ship and enjoy life with his friends of the fo'castle.

Known to his associates as "The Pocket Hercules," because of his stocky build, Brant, dressed in greasy dungarees, "stood by" the ship with the rest of the crew.

"I love the sea and I never wish for better company than I get in the fo'castle of the Coptic," he said.

"I am no hermit of the ocean or anything like that, and though I may be moderately rich, money just does not mean a thing."

"All I want out of life at the moment I get on this ship, and I do not want to leave it."

IGNORANT OF FORTUNE

Born in Napier, New Zealand, Brant had a half share with his father in a 7,000-acre farm. Eight months ago the farm, together with valuable pine-woods, was put on the market and realised a fortune.

He was at sea when the sale took place and did not even know how much the bids had been until he reached port.

No one could have spent a more simple and inexpensive time in port than the £100,000 sailor did.

Big hotels he placed out of bounds immediately. A modest meal at a popular restaurant, a few drinks with his friends, then back to the ship.

MAN MADE WHISKY In Dustbins

ERNEST RILEY, fifty-six-year-old decorator, of Kepler-road, Clapham, S.W., was fined £12.30 at South Western Police Court recently after the story of a dustbin "distillery" had been told.

The magistrate, Mr. Claud Mullins, told Riley that as he had no chance of paying the fine—the maximum—he would go to prison for six months.

Riley was alleged to have said to Flying Squad and Excise officers: "I was short of money and was trying to make a few coppers for Christmas."

He appeared on remand, accused of making spirits and keeping a still. Mr. B. M. Stephenson, for the Customs and Excise, said that at six p.m. on December 19 Excise and Scotland-yard Flying Squad officers watched a flat in Aristotle-road, Clapham.

Riley went to the flat, and after four minutes left with a suitcase. In the suitcase were thirteen bottles of spirits. In the flat were three complete stills made from dustbins and thirty-seven bottles and jars filled with spirit.

USED FALSE NAME

"There is no doubt," said Mr. Stephenson, "that Riley took the flat for the purpose of running the stills. He took it in a false name for three years at a rent of 25s. 6d. a week."

A statement alleged to have been made by Riley, but which he was said to have refused to sign, was read:—"I took the premises about six weeks ago at 25s. 6d. per week. I have made the spirit myself. I found here in the stills which are here. I made the stills myself. I started making spirits here nearly ten days ago. I have not disposed of any so far."

"I used sugar, raisins, potatoes, malted barley, and yeast, of course. I have been decorating these premises with a view to living in them, and have been working the stills during the same period."

"I distilled the spirit twice and flavoured it with the essence you found here. I have done all this myself. I understand the business. I acquired the knowledge from reading."

"I was trying to get five bob a bottle for the spirit but I haven't had a chance to sell any yet. I got me too quick."

'COLOURED IT'

"I have just bought a car for £5. I was going to use it to run the spirit round. I coloured the whisky with burnt sugar."

Mr. Stephenson continued: "Riley took the flat in the name of Ernest Hall, and he wrote out his own reference—a very flattering one. 'The officers found the hall of the flat was being decorated, but I suggest that it was purely a blind in case any one came.'"

"This is an extremely serious case. There is a certain amount of danger to the health of any one drinking this spirit, as it is extremely raw and vicious. Most of the spirit was fifteen to eighteen per cent. under proof, whereas ordinary spirit was thirty per cent. under proof."

Mr. W. G. Bundy, of the Excise special inquiry staff, said that Riley was associated with a man they wanted to find—a man who had expert knowledge of distilling.

'DIABOLICAL'

Riley said to the magistrate: "The prosecution have magnified my offence and make it out that I was running a large concern."

"As a matter of fact I had attended a 'brewers' exhibition and seen the huge equipment which is necessary for making spirits. I would have had a different point of view, and yet they point to me with my sixpenny-halfpenny dustbins, which are more suitable for a Laurel and Hardy film. The Customs officials' opinion about my spirits when they tasted them was that they were diabolical, and that no sane person would have called it whisky or gin."

"My efforts at manufacture were a complete failure. "Duty on whisky is charged according to the standard strength, called 'proof.' Spirit which, when at a temperature of 51° C., weighs 12.13 parts of an equal bulk of water is 'proof' spirit."

Giant Panda's Dinner Treat

She Will Be Pet Of The Populace

BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

"AND what do you think of our London climate?" I should have asked the little lady from China who made her first appearance before the British public. But she looked so tired.

I saw mysterious Miss Giant Panda in her luxurious new quarters in Regent's Park, where she rests after her journey from Asia. Her admirers and protectors are hoping that she will make London her permanent home, for nothing is more certain than that she will become the pet of the populace.

BLACK GOGGLES

Already she has set a new fashion in fur—something quite original, my dear—a broad splash of black across a white background of short woolly hair. Then the cutest idea—the eyes almost hidden behind black goggles of the same material.

It was her positively first appearance before any audience but the weather was so uninviting that barely half a dozen people turned up for the reception. Miss Panda took hardly any notice of them.

Now and again her manager (or attendant, if you prefer) spoke softly to her and gently caressed her out of the crowd.

WAKES AT NIGHT

I suggested that she was bored. "Not really," said the keeper. "She's just sleepy. She is always sleepy during the day. But when night falls she begins to wake up."

"What about food?" I asked. "She eats twice a day. A mixture of flaked oats, flour and sugar baked hard is her staple diet. But what she likes best are bamboo tops."

"Of course, she is just a baby yet. Nine months old, we believe, but we are not sure. But already she weighs 60lb. and is 2ft. 6in. tall. When she gets older she will weigh about 400lb."

The Giant Panda is the Zoo's latest and rarest acquisition.

Plunged Hands In Boiling Lead

PROFESSOR James Kendall picked out a pretty dark-haired girl during his lecture at the Royal Institution recently and said to her: "Have you any faith in science?"

"Yes, Professor, I have."

"Then follow me and I will show you how to wash your hands in a cauldron of molten lead."

ORDEAL OF THE FLESH
The girl was his own daughter, Jean. The Professor put the same question to a small boy named John Green, son of one of the technical demonstrators, and all three rolled up their sleeves and prepared for a great ordeal of the flesh.

This was the Professor's last appearance this season as a wizard of modern chemistry and he made the dream of the old alchemists come true.

It was a laboratory trick that was done by Edward VII when he was Prince of Wales in Edinburgh in 1859.

The words "Have you any faith in science?" were supposed to have been spoken to him when they stood before a cauldron of boiling lead. The Prince put his hand—so the story runs—in a stream of boiling metal without the slightest hurt.

SIMPLE—IF YOU KNOW
The Professor showed the audience of boys and girls how the trick was done. It is quite simple. Anyone can do it, if proper care is taken. "Being in the cauldron," said the Professor, quoting Gilbert's "Milk and Honey," "is something with boiling oil and molten lead in it and let the tormentors prepare for the agony."

The Professor with Jean and John went behind a screen and washed their hands well in a glass bowl containing a solution of ammonium hydroxide, which cleanses the flesh perfectly of any dirt and grease.

PLAYED WITH SPARKS
They reappeared in the spotlight before the audience and as a stream of boiling lead flowed from a red-hot crucible they put their hands in it and played with the flying sparks. None of them was hurt; none suffered the slightest injury.

When it was all over and the Professor bowed his acknowledgments, Jean rose in her seat and said: "I should like you to give my father three hearty cheers."

The great hall where many historic experiments of this kind have been repeated, rang with a chorus of "Hip-hip-hurrah!"

But a little kicking exercise in her keeper's arms soon put things right.

Breaks 2 Feet Of Ice To Swim

EDMONTON, Alberta.

THOUSANDS of people are paying good money to see Kikori Hekelman, 21-year-old Canadian of Armenian descent, perform his Human Seal act in water 55 degrees below zero.

Hekelman is impervious to cold. While fur-coated spectators watch him, he will walk on to the ice clad only in bathing trunks, sit down to eat a couple of ice creams, and then cut through two feet of ice with an axe to make himself a bathing pool.

He will swim for more than ten minutes, and then, blue and dripping, water-walks round cheerfully signing autographs and watching the results of the silver collection that is made for him.

ICY—BUT WARM!

He discovered his uncanny resistance to cold by accident. Six years ago he was crossing a frozen bay in Lake Ontario, when the ice crumbled and Hekelman fell into the water.

He came up and clung unharmed to the ice sheet. Slowly, he wormed his way to heavier ice and safety.

The day was cold, 33° degrees below zero. His clothes were quickly covered with icicles, his thick black hair froze stiff. But to his amazement, he felt quite warm.

Since then, he has travelled throughout Canada and U.S.A. always breaking the record.

And here is the cuddlesome baby, apparently feeling the after effects more than somewhat.

Chased At 70 M.P.H. Had Never Driven Before

Loughborough (Leices). A 18-year-old plumber's apprentice, who had never driven before, took a car from outside an hotel.

This, in the words of a police officer, is what followed:

"I stopped a taxi and chased the car."

"We had to keep up between 60 and 70 miles an hour and could not overtake, because the driver was going from side to side of the road."

"Two miles outside the town the car stopped and the driver was arrested."

Loughborough magistrates imposed fines and costs totalling £12 10s. on the speedster. Reginald Gelsthorpe, a married man with one child.

"I am thankful to the police for having stopped me," Gelsthorpe said. He explained that he had had too much to drink.

Engaged To Three Girls At Same Time

"DON JUAN" exploits of tall, dark-haired Walter Evans, described by a detective at the Old Bailey recently, were:—

Engaged to three girls at the same time.

"Married" three times (once legally).

Suspected of a third bigamy.

Sentencing Evans, thirty-nine-year-old Welsh miner, to fifteen months' imprisonment for fraud, the Recorder, Mr. Gerald Dodson, said: "I have nothing to do with your eccentricities with regard to women, nor can I follow the various complexities of your twisted life."

Evans pleaded guilty to converting £240 given to him by Miss Florence Amy Flint, a Pimlico (London) domestic servant, to invest in a restaurant venture at Beckenham for the pair to run together after marriage. Miss Flint parted with more than £300 to Evans—practically the whole of her life savings.

Detective Sergeant Dampson, of Scotland-yard, said that while Evans was planning to marry Miss Flint he was arranging to marry a girl in Harrogate. He had also promised to marry a girl at Lancaster. "He was legally married in March 1920, had committed bigamy in 1932 at Lillingston, and again at Puddington in 1934 for which he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment."

The sergeant added that Scotland-yard were searching for a third woman he is suspected of bigamously marrying. Evans' real name was said to be William Thomas Mitchell.

Dancer Feared She Was Too Old At 33

MIDHURST (Sussex).

TITIAN-HAIRED Grace Phyllis Willmore, 33-year-old London dancer who took her life in the little flat where she lived over a garage in this country town, feared she was too old to go back to the stage.

Safety Only In Deep Shelters

DEEP bomb-proof shelters—without which morale could not be kept up during raids—were advocated by Professor J. B. S. Haldane, addressing 500 London air-raid wardens at Lincoln's Inn recently.

In many towns in Spain, he said, there were substantial bomb-proof shelters for a large fraction and sometimes for all the population.

"Provision of such shelters is much more important than any organisational measure," he added.

SOMEWHERE TO RUN

"The knowledge that you have got within 100 yards a place to which you can run is more effective in keeping up your morale than any number of air-raid wardens or any amount of propaganda."

It would be necessary to differentiate between raids by three or four planes, where people doing vital work would not shelter, and large raids by thousands of aircraft where all but A.R.P. workers and anti-aircraft gunners would take cover.

"People would soon begin not to worry at the news that there were a few planes somewhere in the vicinity. They would go on with their work."

TRENCH TRAP

Professor Haldane said he had seen one trench 80ft. long in a straight line. Any bomb falling within that trench would wipe out all the people in it.

A long stretch of trench was a death trap: "You have to have traverses and corners to limit the area where shells burst would kill all the people."

"The Government communication laying down the standard pattern for trenches takes no cognisance of this fact, which was known to every infantry soldier."

The meeting passed a resolution urging the Government to provide without delay ample bomb-proof shelters as a permanent part of national defence.

Senators Demand Wrangel Island

Washington, Feb. 18.

A demand to have the United States take possession of Wrangel Island in north-west Alaska which, according to the Republican Congressman Naas, is at present illegally in the possession of Soviet Russia, was submitted to Congress to-day in the form of a bill signed by Senator Reynolds, of the Democratic Party, and Congressman Mans.

The bill proposes to erect a naval air base on Wrangel Island. Congressman Naas explains that the United States could prove that they possessed legal title to the island.—Trans-Ocean.

COMMUNISM PENALTY OF DEFEAT

Vancouver, Feb. 19.

Communism will sweep Japan if she loses the war with China.

This prediction was made to-day by Sir Victor Sparrow, the noted politician, who left Vancouver for Shanghai by the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan.

Japan, he said, was an industrial nation with a declining standard of living.

Japan could not expect Anglo-American assistance in developing China if it was going to throw these two democracies out of the country.—United Press.

HANKOW SITUATION

Hankow, Feb. 18.

The food embargo in the French Concession was lifted to-day, allowing the Chinese population to bring in small quantities of foodstuffs by hand.

Several German residents in French Concession are protesting to the German Consul in consequence of the food embargo which has prevented them from being supplied with food, while they are also protesting against the exorbitant prices in the food market in French Concession.

Authoritative sources state that two Chinese were shot by Japanese sentries when attempting to bring in food into French Concession by sloop.—United Press.

WAR SUPPLIES VIA BURMA

Shanghai, Feb. 19.

According to reports from Japanese sources, war material is being unloaded in Rangoon and now reaching China in increasing quantities.

Two days ago 50 two-ton trucks belonging to a Chinese syndicate left Rangoon loaded to capacity with arms for Lashio near the China-Burma frontier.

In addition, 25 two-ton trucks, owned by an Armenian, left Rangoon the same day for Bhamo, also carrying arms.

It is added that a convoy of several lighters of 800 tons capacity each left Rangoon a few days ago for Bhamo on the Irrawadi River, bearing rifles, machine-guns and trench mortars on board.

Japanese circles also state that the first special "arms" train left Rangoon on Friday for Lashio with a British military escort, and that the train was transporting munitions and equipment destined for China. This latter assertion cannot be confirmed here.—Trans-Ocean.

Hainan Advance Said Checked

KWEILIN, Feb. 20.

A wireless message from an undisclosed place on Hainan Island states that the Japanese advance inland from Hoihow has been checked east of Klungshang.

The Japanese forces, after consolidating their positions along the coast, are pushing with some vigour towards the interior of the island, where they are meeting with stiff, though isolated, resistance.

The Chinese forces have erected a number of defence works against the advancing enemy east of Hoihow.—Central News.

Romance Ends For Skater

Eighteen-year-old skating star Megan Taylor has broken off her engagement because "it wasn't fair to expect the man to wait four years—until I'm through with skating."

She announced this recently when, in check trouser suit, she arrived at Victoria from St. Moritz, where she has been pictured with young Mr. Kennedy, son of the United States Ambassador to Great Britain.

"No, I won't tell you who it was," she said emphatically.

"But I'm not wearing my ring any more."

"It's all over, for the time being, at any rate. Of course, if he still wants to marry me after I've retired—who knows?"

"People have been engaging me to all sorts of people. They've been saying I'm engaged to Joe Kennedy."

"I'm not engaged to Joe—and he has not asked me to marry him. Joe and I are very good friends, I admit."

City Dreams Of No Taxes

Graham, Tex.

Citizens here hoped for tax relief, possibly freedom from city taxes, from a wildcat oil well that is being drilled inside the city limits. The well, if successful, would end the city's tax worries because assessments would be increased enough to pay the bills several fold.

850 JEW REFUGEES

Unhappy Wanderers Arrive In H.K.

EIGHT HUNDRED and fifty Jewish refugees, bound for Shanghai, are in Hongkong to-day. They are passengers aboard the Lloyd Triestino liner Conte Biancamano, which thus carries the largest single batch of refugees that has yet passed through Hongkong.

The liner carries, in addition, over 200 other passengers; so that, with her crew, she carries a human burden numbering 1000. Her maximum capacity, however, exceeds this figure by about 400.

It is difficult to compute the number of fleeing Jews who have poured into Shanghai from all sources, but it is safe to say that the arrival of the Conte Biancamano's consignment will bring the total close to 4,000.

The plight of the Jews in Shanghai therefore threatens to become as grave as the lot from which they are fleeing.

It is no wonder that the trip out is no pleasure for them. Their nervousness about landing at any of the ports en route is only equalled by their anxiety over what awaits them in Shanghai.

ANTING OCCUPIED

Tokyo, Feb. 20.

In a southward advance into the hinterland from Klungshang, capital of Hainan Island, a column of Japanese troops at 7.30 o'clock last night occupied Anting, an important town about 20 miles south of Klungshang. A field dispatch from Hainan Island says.

In their latest advance, the Japanese troops encountered practically no resistance. Few Chinese citizens took refuge from Anting before the Japanese advance.—Domel.

President Cardenas is about to conclude a deal with German interests under which 30 Junker planes will be acquired in exchange for Mexican oil.

Mr. W. R. Davies, well-known New York financier is reported to be the intermediary.

Mexican air force officials are stated to be against the proposed deal, preferring American aircraft as it is more convenient from the viewpoint of obtaining spare parts.

The removal of an attachment order filed several months ago in the United States against the oil tanker San Ricardo, formerly the property of a subsidiary of the Mexican Eagle Company, is announced by the Petroleum Mexicanos, an official concern controlling expropriated oil properties.

The San Ricardo was attached by the owners while undergoing repairs at Mobile, Alabama. She will shortly return to Mexico to trade under contracts with the Mexico Government, and will be used mainly for contracts with Germany and Italian buyers of oil.—Reuter.

HEATED ARGUMENT

Washington, Feb. 19.

Further testimony shows that the War Secretary, Mr. Harry Woodring had a heated exchange with Mr. Henry Morgenthau, Secretary to the Treasury, before the Senate Military Affairs Committee in which Mr. Woodring asserted that the French Mission could not obtain delivery of 1,000 planes before July 1 as at first proposed.—Reuter.

Made In Japan

THE JAPANESE should like us.
We are such good customers.
We don't ask for any return for favours.

This Colony, which is at the bottom of the list of British Colonies importing British goods (only 7.6 per cent. of our total imports come from the United Kingdom) is one of Japan's best customers.

For instance, he came back
from Germany recently raving
about efficiency, about mothercraft services, about medical training, and about many other things in the Nazi health
system.

Now I am not one of those who deny that any good can come out of Germany. If they are making advances there we ought to hear about them. Nazi thoroughness may have something to teach us.

England, ten thousand miles away, bought almost as much from Hongkong as Japan did. Our adverse trade balance with the United Kingdom is only a tithe of the adverse balance with Japan.

If we had diverted a fraction of the enormous total we spent on Japanese textiles to Lancashire, thousands of idle English spindles,
thousands of unemployed English people, would have been at work.

Why should we buy textiles from Japan which we could buy in the Empire? If the cost of English textiles is too high for the average Hongkong purchaser, let us buy from India, which is part of our Commonwealth. Let us set up our own spindles and produce our own textiles. The Japanese quota of something like $20,000,000 per annum is worth going after.

Why should we buy Japanese goods
when the adverse balance of trade, which we have to even by exporting bullion, is being turned by Japan into guns and bombs?

There is nothing that Japan produces that we can't obtain elsewhere.

Keys

JAPAN is annoyed with America for deciding to carry out the Navy Department's scheme as regards
Guam.

Why? Because she sees in fortified Guam a menace to her naval lines to the south and the west.

It does not matter that Japan herself has heavily fortified Formosa
and her outlying Pacific islands, or that Hainan Island, is likely to follow suit. These Japanese fortifications constitute a potential menace to an enormous area in the Pacific, a much greater menace to America than Guam is to Japan.

A CURE FOR SEA-SICKNESS.

The doctors who 'go back'

A DOCTOR friend of mine is "going back to school." I have sent him.

Professionally, he is extremely able. But, about some things, he is profoundly ignorant.

For instance, he came back
from Germany recently raving
about efficiency, about mother-
craft services, about medical
training, and about many other things in the Nazi health
system.

Now I am not one of those
who deny that any good can come out of Germany. If they are making advances there we ought to hear about them. Nazi thoroughness may have something to teach us.

BUT it was obvious that he, quite properly, had been shown the "show-pieces." I could match his mothercraft show-pieces with as good maternity and child welfare clinics here (not all by any means) and his eulogies of the training clinics for doctors annoyed me.

"What you want is a course at the British Post-Graduate Medical School," I told him.

Because, as Hans Swaffer said, Democracy has a lot of things to boast about. And the Post-Graduate Medical School is one of them.

Nine years ago there was a workhouse infirmary in Du Cane-road, Hammersmith, W. To-day that workhouse has been transformed into a teaching hospital, not for medical students, but for doctors.

Doctors who have had experience of it claim that it compares with anything in America, where they do these things so spectacularly.
And its only serious competitor on this side of the Atlantic will be the Nuffield post-graduate medical school at Oxford.

It has been provided by public money — by the Government and by the London
County Council.
The Hammersmith Hospital, to which it is attached, is one of the 77 L.C.C. hospitals, the largest hospital system in the world.

Notice its function — to teach doctors and not medical students. No undergraduates are trained there. It is confined to doctors who have already had practical experience.

It would be asking too much of the busy family doctor to expect him to know all about modern advances in the treatment of illness.
Recent years have been crowded with new discoveries and new methods, many demanding a high degree of specialised knowledge.

But the patients have a right to expect the best available treatment. And to provide that treatment "go back to school" at intervals and brush up their knowledge.

Thousands of them do not, but the Ministry of Health realised the vital need for it when it offered, out of the National Health Insurance surplus, to pay the expenses of panel doctors at a post-graduate school. Hammersmith Hospital is taking its quota, 25 at a time. In addition, it attracts large numbers of private practitioners from all over the Commonwealth. Since 1935, when it was opened, 2,250 doctors have been through the school.

When I visited the hospital yesterday I found doctors, grey-haired, middle-aged and youthful,

sitting in the diagnostic rooms,
learning how to discover diseases and ailments
earlier and more efficiently by modern methods.

I saw a darkskinned Indian surgeon, white-capped, white-smocked, white-

booted hurrying into the operating theatre.

I saw the professors and lecturers, quiet, efficient, enthusiastic demonstrating how modern medical science can benefit humanity.

I saw the patients, in this bright inspiring place, receiving the benefits of the best which accumulated expert knowledge and equipment can provide.

FOR there is nothing like the "human guinea-pig" experiments about Hammersmith.

This is specialist treatment at its best. The specialists are all full-time. They are not like the teaching-specialists in many of the voluntary hospital medical schools giving part of their time to their wards, part to their lectures and most of it to the job of earning a living in Harley-street.

They are zealous. And they have the advantage of their link with the other L.C.C. hospitals of receiving the cases which interest them and demand their specialised knowledge.

Not only has the last vestiges of the workhouse been swept away,
but in its place Hammersmith
Hospital, of which Sir Thomas Carey-Evans is medical superintendent, has emerged as an example of what a first-class modern hospital should be.

I went into what was once an infirmary block. Part of it was for children. Brightly decorated glasscubicles, each with its wash-basin and nursery furnishings provided single-rooms for the new admissions, preventing the spread of any infection.

At a later stage, for company's sake, they are moved to four-cot wards, and when convalescent to a bigger, even jollier ward.

MORE touching than that was the cheerfulness of a large airy, flower-decked ward of patients suffering from painful, and in many cases, hopeless disease.

I have never before seen such a battery of X-ray equipment. Black and cream and chromium, the machines were arrayed — the doctor's armoury in the fight against hidden disease.

There were machines for dental X-ray, for brain examination, for the chest and for the stomach.

These were the detectors.
But there were also two 200,000-volt, and one 400,000-volt tubes for treatment, for destroying the disease in its hiding-place. Another — this time a half-million-volt tube — is being installed.

The specialists, also, have another ally in getting results — the enlightened policy of the L.C.C.

Most people who have been in hospitals shudder at the thought of the food.
But in the L.C.C. hospitals the feeding is part of the cure. I was shown the vast airy kitchens where the food was being prepared. I met the diet-expert. I saw special meals being prepared for those whose diet had to be watched. I saw, too, the general menu.

THEY insist, first, that the food shall be good, second, that it shall be tempting, and, third, that it shall be varied. No patient knows what to-morrow's dinner will be.

And, very important, there are the nurses. No harassed, weary, overworked nurses here. They work the 86-hour fortnight. They have "orderlies" to do the domestic work of the wards, while they get on with their proper job,
the care of the sick.

Within a few weeks, they will have their new nurses' home — a grand place. It provides 305 separate rooms, each with wash-basin, bright floor coverings, fitted wardrobes and all the amenities of a modern hotel.

The probationers, staff-nurses and sisters will have their lounges and dining-rooms. And there is a tennis-court.

It will be a hostel in charge of a warden providing an atmosphere entirely different from their work.
Hasn't Democracy something to boast about?

In Army, Cannot Speak English

THEY had to hunt through Great Scotland Yard recently for somebody who could speak French because one of the latest recruits at the Central London Army recruiting depot knew only a dozen words of English.

George Raymond Buck, at twenty,
a would-be "Soldat Anglais" took his turn in a queue of twenty recruits, and when he came before the officer, announced: "Je desire etre soldat."

"Can't you speak English?" asked the officer, and Buck who had lived all his life in France, replied:
"No." — one of the twelve words of English he knew.

"Well, if you want to be an English soldier, you had better learn pretty quickly," replied the officer, calling for an interpreter.

One was found after a hunt through the building. He asked Buck what regiment he would like to join.

Buck replied: "Je desire a raia-tai-lat."

"Oh, a machine-gunner," remarked the interpreter, and Buck replied: "Out rai-a-tai-lat gun."
And that was how George Raymond Buck, son of a war-time subaltern in the Royal Artillery, who married a Frenchwoman, became a soldier in the Middlesex Regiment
although he could not speak English.
Buck arrived in England as a shipwrecked sailor.

LEE WEI-TONG SCORES "HAT TRICK" IN INTERPORT COLONY SOCCER TEAM TOO GOOD FOR MANILA XI

(By "Abe")

WELL AND TRULY BEATEN WERE THE MANILA FOOTBALLERS YESTERDAY WHEN THEY MET HONGKONG IN THE FIRST INTERPORT EVER ARRANGED BETWEEN THE TWO CITIES. THE MATCH, PLAYED ON THE NAVY GROUND, ENDED IN A 4-1 WIN FOR THE LOCAL ELEVEN.

Had the Hongkong forwards made the most of their opportunities, their margin of victory would have been considerably wider. There were chances galore to score, thanks to the splendid performances given by the defence and the inside-forwards, but both Fowler and Hau Ching-to, the wingers, were absolutely off in their shooting and missed open goals, though the former registered the last goal of the match.

While very fast, especially in the opening minutes, the Manila players were not the equals of the Hongkong men in ball control and tactics. Alex Boissierie, the inside left, was their best man in attack, and though he set the forwards in motion on numerous occasions with splendidly-judged passes, his colleagues were unable to batter down the solid Hongkong defence. Method was lacking and added to this was also an absence of thrust which allowed Li Tin-sang and Sheehan to make their clearances without being hurried.

MIDFIELD SUPERIORITY

With Urgate playing a third back game the bulk of the midfield work fell to the wing-halves and Boissierie, but Hongkong had all three intermediates as well as Gosano and Fung King-cheung on the job, which meant that the local men had the pull whenever the ball was in the centre of the field. As a result, Hongkong was on the aggressive almost throughout the match and the ball was kept in Manila territory for long periods of time.

Lee Wei-tong, the Hongkong captain and centre-forward, was well-pleased with passes by his colleagues and scored Hongkong's first three goals. The first and third were typical efforts—terrible shots from 20 yards out—and the second was "made" for him by Gosano, who sent a splendid through pass which left Lee with only the goal-keeper to beat.

The other two veterans in the forwards line, A. V. Gosano and Fung King-cheung, were very hard-workers. They not only made the openings for their colleagues but played no mean parts in the defence, especially Gosano, who was here, there and everywhere and making his presence felt all the time.

FINE DEFENCE

Dixon, the local centre-half, dominated midfield play and was given fine support by Leung Wing-chiu. Honeywell started shakily at right-half but improved as the game progressed. The two backs, Li Tin-sang and Sheehan, were all-ways dependable and gave a splendid exhibition. They covered up each other very well indeed.

With the half-backs and full backs playing so well, Tam Kwan-kon, in the Hongkong goal, had little to do. Apart from the partial clearance he made—which ended in Manila scoring their only point—he had few shots fired at him, and was not really tested.

In the attack, Hongkong relied on the three "old horses," Gosano, Lee Wei-tong and Fung King-cheung. These were the chief danger to the Manila side. The two wingers, Fowler on the right and Hau Ching-to on the left, had a bad day. Fowler had had luck in the first five minutes when his shot hit the bar with Ygoa well-beaten, but on the whole he missed many chances. If anything, Hau was even worse. Once he had the ball five yards from goal and with only Ygoa to beat, he shot outside and on another occasion, after Lee's shot had been deflected and rebounded into play, Hau had an open goal and missed again. Never have I seen him in such poor shooting form.

Fung's greatest fault was that he seldom attempted a shot at goal himself. Even when well-placed, he preferred to find Lee, who was invariably well-placed.

ELUSIVE LEE

Urgate played the role of policeman to Lee, but found the Hongkong captain too elusive. Urgate always kept well back, but Lee sometimes changed his game and did not move up, with the result that the Centre-half found himself without a centre-forward to mark. The wing-halves were very good, especially Valles, who kept a firm hold on the Colony's right wing combination.

The backs, Pancheco and Miranda, were very fast, but were apt to be flustered under pressure. Ygoa had little chance with the first three shots which beat him, but he should have saved Fowler's goal. He stopped the ball but could not hold it and it went into the net.

Hongkong took the lead five minutes after the start. After a period of ding-dong play, Hongkong forced a corner on the right. Hau Ching-to went over to take the kick. I don't know whose idea it was, but it paid. The ball landed near the goal-mouth, was pushed out to Lee, who took a terrific first-time shot which sped like a bullet into the net. Though Hongkong was doing most of the attacking, they were unable to increase the lead despite several opportunities. A terrific pace was maintained, and half-time arrived with no additional score.

SECOND HALF

One minute after the resumption, Gosano robbed Nieto of the ball, and sent in a dandy pass to Lee, who ran in to score from close range.

Despite this two-goal lead, the Hongkong side still had to fight hard. Manila pressed and two minutes later the visitors reduced the lead when Reyes, seizing upon a partial clearance, found the net with ease.

Lee completed his "hat trick" midway through the second half with a "beauty." Getting the ball just outside the penalty area, he ran across the goal-mouth and scored with a lovely left-footed drive, just as he was tackled by Urgate.

By this time, the Filipinos were feeling the terrific pace. Play slowed down slightly, and Hongkong was now definitely on top. Then a few minutes before the end, Fowler, from a difficult angle, fired in a shot which Ygoa failed to hold to give the local men their fourth and last goal.

Teams: Hongkong—Tam Kwan-kon; Li Tin-sang, Sheehan; Honeywell, Dixon, Leung Wing-chiu, Fung King-cheung, Lee Wei-tong, A. V. Gosano and Hau Ching-to. Manila—R. Ygoa; J. Pacheco, M. Miranda; R. Nieto, P. Urgate, E. Valles; A. Reyes, E. Heredia, L. Larrazabal, A. Boissierie and E. Beech.

Shanghai Wins Rugby Interport by One Point—

WINNING TRY SCORED IN CLOSING STAGE OF THE ENCOUNTER

(By "Fly-Half")

Well played, Shanghai! Few expected a win for the Northerners in the Interport rugby match and yet none grudged them their victory after their whole-hearted performance. The score of 12-11 in their favour might easily have been reversed although they deserved every one of their tries.

H. D. Bidwell, the Hongkong Rugby Football Club skipper and centre three-quarter, finding touch on Saturday in the Interport rugby match with Shanghai at Happy Valley. After a fine struggle, Shanghai won by 12 points (four tries) to 11 (a goal and two tries).—Photo by Jaffer.

The Shanghai forwards were down the local eight in the set scrums, and indeed only in the lineouts did the Hongkong pack come into the picture. In the loose the quick-breaking visiting bunch of forwards, with R. U. Reynolds and Stewart in the van, did marvellous work. Stewart made one particularly outstanding effort when he tackled Chadwick in full flight to bundle him into touch when a score seemed likely.

Hongkong's half-hearted attempts at tackles both by backs and forwards were pitiful to see. Reynolds dealt effectively with light tackles with a powerful hand-off. Many the time he made far more ground than he should have because of the feeble attempts which were made to bring him down. Far too much was seen of the pushing into touch instead of tackle with plenty of weight behind it to throw the man out of play.

Twice Shanghai scored at the flag and on both occasions a push was attempted by a local defender with no results.

BACKS POOR

The Hongkong backs were off-form. They outplayed themselves in attack and were indecisive in defence. It was not unusual to find that the ball had passed them down the Club three line and not one inch of ground gained. The halves held their own, playing as they were behind a losing pack. Hutchison, at stand-off for Club, had a lot to do in defence, and in attack was the only back in the Club side to possess powers of penetration. Henderson was not so accurate with his passes as he has been lately.

The inside held on to the ball far too long with the result that the wing-men were put in possession when confronted with two or more Shanghai players. Whilst the wings did their best to barge through in such circumstances, they should have realised that a quick kick to touch was the safer thing to do when in defence near their own line.

A faithful blunder first by Bidwell and then by Stewart in similar circumstances gave Shanghai their last and winning try. From a loose scrum near the covered stand, the ball came out to Henderson and to him went down the line without any gain in ground until Bidwell came into possession. Finding his way in front blocked, he ran across until nearly into touch when he threw out a wild pass to Stewart, who was immediately behind him. Stewart gathered and, instead of kicking into touch immediately, held on that second too long to allow the Shanghai three to tackle him. Next second Hutchison, the Shanghai wing three, was through with MacGrath unsuspecting.

CONSTRUCTIVE GAME

Aucott, opposite Bidwell, played a constructive game. He gave Bidwell very little room in which to move. Although scoring plenty of the ball, the Shanghai three produced very few movements which came off. They also lacked penetration but used every mistake made by their opponents to advantage.

Mills, at stand off half for Shanghai, played a steady game without being spectacular. He appeared to be the heaviest member of the visiting team and certainly found it to his advantage when forcing his way through. He generally found Heath, the Club wing forward, in close attendance, when he endeavoured a cut-through.

In the 20th minute of the game, Shanghai opened the scoring when Kennedy and Reynolds both dropped over the Club line. Other tries for Shanghai were scored by Hutchison, Laird and Warner. Bagg failed to convert any one of the tries.

For Hongkong, Stewart and Bidwell scored tries in the first half, and in the second, J. Hutchison went over and Watson added the extra points.

Interport Hockey Match

At Macao Drawn: Two Goals Each Lt. Pritam Nath Scores Both Points for H.K.

Macao, Feb. 19.

In a match marked by periods of dreary and inconclusive mid-field exchanges, Hongkong and Macao drew two-all in the hockey Interport played here before a large crowd of onlookers to-day.

Mr. D. Calvo, the manager of the Manila soccer team, paid high tribute to the Hongkong eleven when I saw him immediately after the Interport encounter yesterday.

"Your men were too good for us," he stated. "Your defence was very sound. Lee Wei-tong very effective and Gosano played a grand game." Asked whether the form shown by the Manila lads in the match was up to their usual standard, Mr. Calvo said that perhaps his boys were playing a little below form. There were two reasons why they could not produce their best play.

Firstly, the ground at Causeway Bay was harder than those to which they were accustomed; secondly, the strong cross-wind blowing at the time did not help them to control the ball.

Mr. Calvo expressed the hope that his players would enter into better form in their two remaining matches.

FILIPINOS MAKE TWO CHANGES

Mr. D. Calvo, manager of the Manila team, announced last evening that two changes will be made in the side to play the Combined Chinese at Causeway Bay this afternoon. A. Villanueva will take the place of Ygon in goal, and J. M. Hernandez will turn out at right back in place of Pacheco.

The team will, therefore, be: A. Villanueva; J. M. Hernandez, M. Miranda; R. Nieto, P. Urgate, E. Valles; A. Reyes, E. Heredia, L. Larrazabal, A. Boissierie and E. Beech.

The Combined Chinese will be represented by:

Tam Kwan-kon (S. China "B"); Mak Shiu-hon (S. China "A"); Li Tin-sang (S. China "A"); Soong Ling-sing (Eastern), Leung Wing-chiu (S. China "A"), Hsu King-ching (Eastern); Tang King-cheung (S. China "A"); Fung King-cheung (S. China "A"); Lee Wei-tong (S. China "A"); Lai Shiu-wing (S. China "A") and Hau Ching-to (Eastern).

Reserves—Yeung Shiu-yick (S. China "B"), Chan Tak-fai (S. China "B"), Hou Yung-sang (Kwong Wah) and Lau Hing-chol (S. China "A").

NORTHERNERS WIN SKI-ING CHAMPIONSHIP

Zakopane, Feb. 18. The long-distance world championship ski race over 10 kilometres was won to-day at the International Ski Competitions by the Norwegian, Bergendahl, in 2 hrs. 37 mins. 53 secs. The seven next best were also north Europeans—Fins, Norwegians and Swedes—the ninth being Smolij, of Yugoslavians.—Trans-Ocean.

Macao enjoyed slightly more territorial advantage than the visitors, but Hongkong's defence was in splendid form, with Lieut. Hook outstanding.

Hongkong's initial attack was easily repulsed when Costa intercepted Fowler's centre, and then Macao made things hot for the visitors, who were placed strictly on the defence for a long period. Hook several times relieved very threatening situations, and his cool judgment and powerful clearances constituted a feature of the match.

Macao's first goal followed some loose play in the centre of the field, Hugo Rosario breaking away and scoring from 10 yards range with a fierce backhand drive.

Hongkong appeared to be stimulated by this reverse and swarmed to the attack. However, a big tactical blunder was committed by starving Parthaub Singh and Neralin Singh on the left wing.

PRITAM NATH EQUALISES

Hongkong's equalising goal before the interval was the outcome of some skilful opportunism by Pritam Nath, who followed up an opening created by Piyara Singh, and literally stole the ball from Rosario, Macao's right back, to beat Almada in goal with an unstoppable shot.

Macao readily returned to the offensive after the interval, and again Lieut. Goodwin, Hook and Reed had to call on all their resourcefulness to save the goal. Goodwin prevented two apparently certain goals in great style, and this put new heart into the Hongkong attack, which began to use the left wing to more advantage.

However, it was Macao who again took the lead, J. Nolasco and Alex Ferreira; F. Nolasco, Albert Airoso, P. Angelo, H. Rosario and A. Angelo.

R. Henderson, manager of the Hongkong side, and K. Hussain refereed the game.

The remaining minutes provided the best play of the afternoon, with Macao doing most of the attacking, but Hongkong always looking dangerous when on the move.

Macao had more of the ball, but Hongkong's defence was magnificent.

The teams were:

Hongkong—Lieut. Goodwin; V. Bond, J. Goncalves; Lt. W. Hook, W. Reed (Capt.) and M. Malik; S. Fowler, Pritam Nath, Piyara Singh, Neralin Singh, and Parthaub Singh.

Macao—Capitane Almada; R. Rosario and Laertes Costa (Capt.); J. Nolasco, Alex Airoso and Santos Ferreira; F. Nolasco, Albert Airoso, P. Angelo, H. Rosario and A. Angelo.

INTERPORT DINNER

In the dinner which followed Willie Reed was presented with a banner by Laertes Costa on behalf of the Macao side, while the Macao team received in return a hockey stick and ball which were handed to the Macao captain by Willie Reed, the visiting skipper. Following a short address by Lieut. Proenca thanking the Hongkong team for their visit, Lieut. Douglas suitably replied on behalf of Mr. A. A. Dand, President of the Hongkong Hockey Association.

The hope was expressed that interport hockey matches would be carried further afield when the local secretary addressed the gathering Lieut. O'Costa, who initiated the Interport series between Hongkong and Macao, and other speeches were also given by the captains of the two teams and others.—Our Own Correspondent.

LEN HUTTON SAVES M.C.C. FROM COMPLETE COLLAPSE IN TEST

ENGLISHMEN DISMISSED FOR 215 IN 1ST KNOCK

The M.C.C. collapsed after tea on Saturday in the first day's play in the Fourth Cricket Test against South Africa at Johannesburg, losing the last six wickets for only 56 runs. The whole side was out for 215.

To this total, Leonard Hutton contributed 92 in a chanceless innings. A. B. C. Langton was the most successful bowler with five wickets for 58 runs. The South African bowlers were backed up by magnificent fielding.

At close of play, the South Africans had made 11 without loss.

A crowd of 4,000, which steadily increased later, was present when Hammond won the toss and elected to bat in showery weather on a wicket that looked very fast.

Hutton and P. A. Gibb, the Yorkshire pair, opened the innings, and when only 14 runs had been scored, rain stopped play. Both men had scored seven.

After a quarter of an hour's delay play was resumed.

Gibb was caught by Mitchell at first slip off the last ball of Langton's first over after the resumption for nine (18 for 1).

Paynter joined Hutton, and at lunch the Yorkshire-Lancashire combination was still together, with the score at 75 for one wicket. Hutton was then 34 and Paynter 32.

Both batsmen were cautious against very good length bowling and good fielding, though Paynter punished anything loose.

PAYNTER CAUGHT

The crowd had increased to 15,000 after lunch. A shower caused half an hour's stoppage when the score stood at 96 for 1, and then Paynter was caught by Newson off Langton for 40. (90 for 2).

Paynter tried to cut an outswinger which he edged into the hands of second slip. It was the first ball of the second over after the resumption, and showed the benefit South Africa obtained from the interruptions by rain.

Paynter had been at the wickets for 79 minutes, and hit two 5's.

HUTTON'S 1,000 RUNS

When 40 Hutton completed his 1,000 runs for the tour.

Hammond was out for a single to a one-handed catch by Newson off Gordon at silly mid-on. Newson held the ball practically on the ground.

An in-swinging rose sharply and struck the shoulder of the English skipper's bat. (99 for 3).

AMES YORKED

Ames fell a victim to a yorker by Langton when he had scored 34. (159 for 4). The Kent stumper had made a few chancy shots over slips' heads in his innings, which lasted 54 minutes.

Tea was taken with the score 159 for 4, Hutton being 75 not out.

The wicket was not solely responsible for England's batting failure after tea, when the last six wickets fell for 56 runs.

The wicket showed liveliness after the showers, when the ball "popped" and was probably responsible for the dismissal of Hammond and Paynter, but it was chiefly the psychological effect on the batsmen expecting the ball to "pop" when it did not.

The crowd had increased to 20,000 after tea, and they saw Hutton being bowled by Mitchell with the total at 187 for six wickets. An off break came back to take the leg stump.

Hutton, who made 92, had played a grand, all-round innings, which took 202 minutes. He hit seven fours and gave no chances.

K.C.C. Winter Tennis Tournament

"Alexander's Ragtime Band," a 20th Century-Fox production, which is now showing at the King's Theatre, is a survey of the work of Mr. Irving Berlin from his earliest jazz number, which he wrote in 1911 and which gave the film its title, to his songs of the present day.

There is no doubt that Irving Berlin's early music can still make today's dance melodies seem timeless in comparison. His music makes this

FASHION PARADE

1919 - 1924 - 1929 - 1934 - 1939

THE clothes of 1919 look almost as out of date to us now as the clothes of 1899.

"Good heavens, did I really wear that?" you say, looking at a picture of yourself in a skirt which reached to your ankles, a waistless coat which draped across your hips, and a hat which was well rammed down over your ears.

Dressing was a tiresome and expensive business during the years 1919-1929. You could never be sure of being able to wear last year's coat again this year; skirts and waists flew up and down; panels went out and pleats came in; deep V necks turned into high round necks; top-heavy hats dwindled to close-fitting caps.

But look at the mannequin procession from 1929 to 1939 and you will see that certain definite lines came into fashion, stayed in fashion, and are still in fashion to-day.

Skirt lengths, for instance. In 1929 evening dresses were short in front, long at the back—remember? Gradually the front came down to the floor, too, and for the last eight years has stayed there. Day skirts have hovered up and down between ground—but, after all, that was only length skirt narrowed to a soda-water bottle silhouette. It was worn over a black satin waistcoat embroidered with buff and blue wool.

1924 You weren't smart unless your coat was a loose cross-over, tightly swathed below the hips and lying on one side. It was still made of gabardine, and was certain to be trimmed with braid. Skirts were still long and tight, but now slit up the side.

1929 Short skirts at last, and if you look closely at this suit you'll see a lot of points that go into suits to-day: a panted skirt, for instance, well-defined waist, curving hipline and high neck.

Evening dresses had that peculiar line: a long tail dipping to the floor at the back, knee-high in front.

1934 You wouldn't have guessed this frock was nearly five years old, would you? It looks right up to date with its off-the-shoulder neckline, fitting bodice, full-fronted skirt and a necklace of real flowers.

1939 You shop in a slick suit in wine red woolen, with high round neck, curving hipline, and short, easily full skirt. You dance in almost a erinoline, with a low off-the-shoulder neck, fitting waist and spreading skirt.

1919 A smart suit was made of dark blue gabardine. The nearly knee-length coat had a suggestion of a high waist; the ankle-trims the neckline.

COOKING IDEAS

BRUSH over the bottoms of fruit tarts and flans with white of egg. This will prevent the juices sinking in and softening the pastry.

To re-heat a steamed pudding, cut it into slices, place in a greased and covered basin, and steam for half-an-hour.

When using skimmed milk for milk puddings, a small piece of butter should be added to make up for the lack of fat in the milk.

If bread has gone stale, hold the loaf over steam from the kettle for a few moments, then place in a hot oven for ten minutes. Dry on a wire tray.

Salted almonds make a useful addition to the dinner table. Blanch and dry the nuts, roll in olive oil and fine salt, and bake in a slow oven till crisp. To make devilled almonds, add a little cayenne to the salt and oil.

M. L. B.

The sharp contrast of white braid against navy blue wool flannel is striking on this princess robe with white composition slide fastener closing down the front. The neck is cut to stand up slightly at the back; the braid trimming is used at the wrists and at the pocket edges; the skirt is flared.

That "Just Sitting" Habit

ARE you a devotee of the "just do we think intelligently? Not at sitting" habit? It is that ten- all. The mind goes round and round dency to sink down by the fire, or in sunshine, or in any other fairly comfortable place, ostensibly only for a brief spell, then to sit and sit, until they begin to loom so intending to get up every minute, but with one's resolve getting weaker and weaker with every wasted moment, until one finds that not only the minutes but the hours have flown.

I admit, as anyone else must, that we must sometimes find time "to stand and stare" and waste a little time, but that is quite a different thing from the settled sitting habit. An hour or two frittered away light-acts as a break and a relaxation, but those repeated, every task periods of apathetic lounging act as a distinct brain-softener. In the former case you are the mistress, and can control the occurrence, but in the latter instance, the habit has got a hold of you and you are its slave. You know how it starts. You step up to the fire and hold out your hands to the blaze for a minute or two. "Delicious!" you murmur. "I'll just have a few moments." And you sink down in an armchair or on the hearthrug and almost immediately lose count of the moments. There is probably some work waiting to be done, or you had intended to go out, but your will-power becomes less and less in evidence, and there you stop.

A Tendency to Laziness

It is not only by the fire that "just sitting" grows on you. You have probably observed someone going out into the sunshine, armed with both working tackle and excellent intentions, then starting on that "just a few minutes" and prolonging it to an indefinite period.

In fact, she who has the unfortunate habit can find many other places and occasions for indulging it, which only goes to prove what a hold it can get; it is always somewhere in the mind, ready to assert itself.

And what do we do while we are sitting still? Do we plan anything,

Losing the Power of Action

A period of it not only depresses; it acts as a brain-softener. It makes us fuddled and slow and mentally lazy. The brain begins to feel like a particularly unsuccessful suet- pudding. In addition, and this is particularly worth noting, every task which awaits us appears insuperable. We completely lose the power of vital activity.

Now supposing you are unlucky enough to have developed the habit, and you decide to cure yourself of it. Then here is a comforting thought. All psychologists will tell you that mental ills are easy to cure. They are easy to contract and easy to cure. But the point is you must be firm and strong in your resolve. The most important thing to remember is never to allow a lapse until you are cured.

Until you feel that you are cured, you will have to be exceptionally severe with yourself. It will mean an effort to first, but it will be well worth it. Your will-power will get stronger, and the bad habit weaker, until finally you will find that you have a complete hold of it.

Charm—Attribute Of Age

CHARM is an attribute of age. The first time I had that said to me I was furious. Like most of us, I was young and charming. Now that I am some (4) years older I begin to see the truth.

Youth is attractive, and too often we dub it charming. That is why we are so surprised when "a charming young thing" grows into a crochety thirty-five.

She has not really lost charm because she did not have it to lose. Charm grows with experience and is fashioned by understanding. That does not mean, however, that the loveliest quality a woman can possess can be won by rule of thumb. There is no saying to yourself, "Now I will acquire charm. For that I need understanding so I will read the latest work on psychology."

It simply does not work out that way, for there is another dominating factor, and that is our reaction to age. If we react bitterly when the compass and a thousand arms of rosy dreams of youth fade before reality we shall become querulous who have learned to live in under- and discontented. "Why should I have to help with the washing-up?"

Death To Influenza?

London.
Mr. J. E. Barnard, in his fifth presidential address to the Royal Microscopical Society in London, said that scientists, with the aid of ultra-violet rays, soon hoped to see the virus which causes the infection in Cancer, Influenza and the common cold. This virus has bewildered medical men for decades, but now at last it looks as if the death-blow will shortly be delivered.

Blacksmith Makes Own False Teeth

Recently celebrating his golden wedding was 72-year-old Mr. Ebenezer Duploch, blacksmith-dentist of Biddenden, Kent. He has been the village blacksmith for 42 years.
A few years ago he made himself a complete set of aluminium false teeth.
His wife urged him not to wear them, thinking he might poison himself, but he has worn them ever since. "They be mighty comfortable, and do their job well," said Ebenezer.

TERRORISTS REIGN IN SHANGHAI

Assassinations Include Big Official

SHANGHAI, Feb. 20. Despite stringent precautions taken by the authorities concerned, a day of horror greeted Chinese New Year's day in Shanghai.

Chen Lu, Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Nanjing "Reformed Government," was shot dead by unidentified gunmen in his private residence in Yu Yuen Road in the International Settlement at 7.15 o'clock last night.

For the first time in over a year, anti-Japanese terrorists struck Nanking Road, Shanghai's business centre, at 2.30 p.m. when Jichi Koyanagi, a photographer attached to the Japanese Army, was shot by an unidentified assassin while sitting in a taxi-cab in front of Kwang Sin Yuen, a Chinese restaurant.

The assassin also fired on two Japanese women and Rokuro Sato, Koyanagi's companion. Koyanagi suffered a shattered upper right arm, but one of the women and Sato escaped unhurt.

Miss Masako Morioka, 26 years of age, miraculously escaped death when the assassin's bullet, penetrating the right chest, glanced off the ribs and emerged from the left side without touching the heart or lungs.

The assassin fled into a nearby alley, evading the police.

RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

Shanghai, Feb. 19. Commemorating Chinese New Year, assassins fatally shot Chen Lu, Foreign Minister of the Nanjing Government and former Minister to France at his residence in Shanghai to-day.

Fifteen armed bodyguards accompanied Chen to dinner, but they did not resist when 20 assassins appeared and riddled Chen with bullets.

Police revealed that Chen arrived in Shanghai at 4 p.m. on Saturday very secretly from Nanking.

Several women were present at the dinner party when the assassins opened fire, resulting in panic amongst the guests.

Police said that the assassins entered by the back door, and the raid created such a surprise that all present were taken completely unawares, especially Chen's bodyguards, who had not time to draw their guns.

The assassins boldly pushed the bodyguards aside after digging guns into their ribs. After pushing the bodyguards into a room without the slightest resistance, the assassins entered the main hall and trained their guns on Chen Lu, letting loose a barrage.

It is stated that Chen was hit seven or eight times, after which the assassins decamped. Chen was rushed to hospital, but died before an emergency operation could be performed.—United Press.

"IRON AND BLOOD" CORPS

CHUNGKING, Feb. 20. The assassination of Chen, climaxing a series of daring coups and assassinations staged by members of the "Chinese Youth's Iron and Blood Corps," was characterised by its grim aspect and the comparative renown of the victim, who had been many years connected with the diplomatic service of the National Government and was Chinese Minister to France in 1920-27.

At least a dozen armed men entered Chen's house. The watchmen of the house were first overpowered, after which the gang marched into the dining room where the family were having supper. Without warning, Chen was riddled with bullets which pierced his eyes, throat and other parts of the body.

Chen's wife and daughter were covered into silence and inaction. The gang then produced a piece of white paper denouncing Chen as a traitor. They said they would not harm Chen's family, and then decamped.

The assassins came to Chen's house, which was on the extra-territory of Shanghai, without passing through the International Settlement, and the case was therefore outside the jurisdiction of the Shanghai Municipal police.—Central News.

Japanese Injured In Shanghai

Shanghai, Feb. 20. Three Japanese including one woman, were wounded yesterday afternoon when they were attacked by a Chinese with a revolver in the International Settlement.

The incident occurred as two Japanese, accompanied by two women, took their seats in a motor car, having lunched in a Chinese restaurant in Nanking Road.

As the car drove off the Chinese assailant sprang on to the running board and fired several shots through the open window.

One of the Japanese women was wounded in the chest, and both men were slightly injured.

The assailant managed to escape.—Trans-Ocean.

Demonstration In London

London, Feb. 19. Several thousand youthful members of Communist and Socialist organisations, including Oxford and Cambridge undergraduates, took part in a demonstration in London to-day on behalf of Loyalist Spain.

Five thousand, from all parts of the country, assembled at Trafalgar Square and marched through Whitehall to the West End, where mass meetings were held to-night.

The demonstrators carried Russian and Loyalist Spain flags, shouting "Arms For Spain."

They attempted to invade Downing Street, but were held back by strong detachments of mounted police.—Trans-Ocean.

D. B. S. Student: Afflame: Dies

The death occurred last night of James Kwai, a senior student of the Diocesan Boys' School, who was badly burned three weeks ago in a room of the school's dormitory.

James, one of the best students in his class, was a son of Mr. Y. C. Kwai, a well-known educationist in Canton, and of Dr. Mui Yun-lin.

A glass of alcohol fell on his body, it is said, when one of his room-mates was burning letters in his room. The fire immediately enveloped him, and before it was extinguished with the help of his schoolmates he was critically burned in his abdomen and thighs.

Despite all possible treatment he passed away after three weeks' suffering.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. to-day at the Pokfulam Road Christian Cemetery.

Belgian Crisis

Brussels, Feb. 19. M. Pierlot has been asked to form a new two-party Cabinet, consisting of Socialists and Catholics.

M. Pierlot announced that even if he could not form a two-party Cabinet, he would get together a Ministry during the coming week.—Trans-Ocean.

STABBED MAN CONFESSES

A man who appeared before Court this morning on a charge of giving false information to the police, is alleged to have stabbed himself twice in the leg in order to make his story appear more authentic.

He is alleged to have confessed that in a story that he had been seized by three armed men, one of whom "stabbed him before relieving him of $95, was connected in order to 'save face' with an uncle, to whom he should have refunded a loan of $95 before the lunar New Year.
